Construction Starts on New Senior Housing Complex

On September 28, 1990, ground was broken for the new senior citizen building to be constructed on Wayne Road just south of Goddard, across from City Hall. A large crowd gathered to listen to speeches from Valentine Dadich, president of the senior citizen board of directors for Cooperative Services; Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally; Fred Wood, general manager of Cooperative Services; and Elizabeth Kairis, president of a sister cooperative.

Rent for those residing in the three-story building will be based on 30% of their income, and will include utilities, electric range, refrigerator, disposal, carpeting, hot-water heating system, central laundry facilities, and an air-conditioning sleeve for those who want to have their own cooling units. (There is no entrance fee.)

Some other anticipated amenities include a large community room with kitchen facilities, a lounge, and a beauty parlor.

The residents themselves will be involved in the management of the Co-op. Cooperative Services believes that senior citizens themselves make the best decisions about their housing.

A fact sheet (with information about who to contact if you are interested in putting your name on a waiting list) will be available at the Romulus Senior Center, located at 36515 Bibbins.

This project is unlike other Area senior-citizen housing in that it is government funded and will remain so. This means that rent will always be based on income and will not revert to fair market value after a set number of years.

Romulus senior citizens, be warned: only 65 one-bedroom apartments will be available in this three-story building, and it behooves us to fill this new facility with our own residents. □ things at cars from nearby overpasses, random shootings in the streets, etc., is bad enough. Drunk driving is just a little too much to add to the already bad habits of too many. □

Romulus Police report that 14 traffic-accident fatalities have occurred so far this year, as opposed to just two deaths for the entire year in 1989.

Police Officer Misses Death by Split Second

by Dave Atkins

You would think that, with all that has been written about drunk driving lately (in both The Romulus News and other papers), some people would finally wake up.

One of our local police officers narrowly missed being killed at approximately 11:18 p.m. on September 21.

Officer Cooper was on westbound I-94, policing an accident (flares lit around two cars pulled off to the side of the road in front of the patrol car, which had its flashing lights going), when along comes some (allegedly) drunk driver who smashes into the back of the patrol car. The impact caused a "chain reaction" (meaning that the patrol car hit the car in front of it, and that car, in turn, hit the car in front of it, injuring the driver of the last car in the chain). The remarkable thing about the incident, according to one witness, was that Officer Cooper was just about to get into her patrol car when the collision occurred. Had she been one split second quicker in opening the car door, all witnesses agree, she would be dead today.

The driver who was hit by his own car in the chain reaction was taken to the hospital, but there is no word yet on his condition.

The patrol car (one of our newer vehicles) appears to have been totally destroyed. (I hope that guy had some insurance.)

This is just one more example of why drunk-driving laws should be more strictly enforced, and why newer and tougher laws should be enacted to require a mandatory jail sentence for anyone caught driving while intoxicated. A human life is not worth the couple of hours that a person stays high from alcohol or anything else. A human life is much more valuable than a "good time" drinking.

Good cops are hard to come by. We happen to have some good ones, and it would be a shame for one of them to get killed because of some booze-head blowing his money in a bar or at a party store.

Cooper can consider herself lucky: she is alive. Next time it could be reversed, and she could be killed in the line of duty just because someone tips the bottle a little too often for a little too long.

THE EDITOR'S OPINION

"I admit it: I'm the culprit; I caused it all!"

A Letter to the Editor

I write in response to your September 5, 1990 article concerning Romulus schools. You ask for understanding in the current educational plight. I can't understand why you did not confirm Dr. Bedell's statements with a leader of the teachers' organization. The tone of the article was very damaging to the teachers. You spread negativism to the public that will be heard echoing through the halls of our schools. The teachers' pay was reportedly increased to $48,312 for those with a masters degree and a decade of experience. (Actually I believe the amount was incorrect and the average teacher probably has closer to two decades of experience.) Obviously you understand that teachers make more than the average Romulus resident. Teachers jobs are envied by those who have never tried to teach 30 to 40 active children. You left out the rest of the story.

The issue of contention, in my understanding, is the absence of the actual contract for the past four years which you seemed to blame on the teachers. A contract is an agreement between two parties to establish predictability and foster trust. A contract for the teachers means not only a regular paycheck, but a manageable class size, the inability to be moved from second grade to senior high at the whim of an administrator, etc., etc. A contract for administration means the teachers will arrive at school in September. They're here in our classrooms! The teachers upheld their end. Without a contract it's the teachers that lose, not the administration. Teachers lose the ability to effectively teach. Teachers lose trust in their administration. The children of Romulus lose.

At best you have added to the residents apathy towards the schools. At worst you've added to the anger and distrust. Children learn to dislike learning when their parents make negative comments about teachers and school.

You owe the Romulus people an apology. Responsible reporting includes both sides of the story.

Sincerely,
A concerned reader

Dear Concerned Reader,

In your very last statement, you say that responsible reporting includes both sides of the story. I agree. (See, I'm not such a bad guy after all.) However, over the last couple of years, I have found that your union does not want to talk to the press (this newspaper in particular). It is therefore difficult to present your union's side of anything. The article was not intended to be damaging to the teachers; it was, however, intended to be factual, and I presented those facts that I was able to determine. If those were "damaging," so be it.

As for your comment on the length of teacher tenure, my statement that, "... a teacher with a master's degree and 11 years of experience (which 82% of our teachers have)..." implies that 82% of our teachers have at least 11 years of experience; I am fully aware that some of them have been teaching longer (and I'm sure that most other people are smart enough to figure that out, too).

Yes, I agree that not many residents earn $48,312 per year (and I have no reason to disbelieve that figure, which came from the School Board), and I know that a good teacher works hard for his/her pay — but so do the rest of us. Even the Mayor of Romulus doesn't make that kind of money, and she works 12 months a year, often putting in 12- to 16-hour days, and instead of managing 30 people, she oversees several hundred. Nor does she "work to rule," as many teachers do. Should I continue to explain that to the parents?

I did not say that I blamed the teachers for the absence of a signed contract. I blame the Union and some of the Union leaders who work for this school district. (Names are available if you would like them.)

You say that the teachers upheld their end of an agreement (unsigned); well, it appears to me that the Board upholds its end, too (you have been paid for your efforts — it's not as though you've been working for free all this time), and has further demonstrated its good faith by granting significant raises without the signed document of which you speak. I disagree with your assertion that it is the teachers who lose without a contract. The way I see it, it's the students who lose out when allegedly highly educated, adult people cannot reach a sensible agreement and force their union to sign a contract. If that is the case, then maybe you should replace your union with one that would seem to have more of your welfare at heart.

You say that I have added to the residents' apathy, and may have further amplified their anger and distrust. I do not believe that to be the case. In fact, all that I have heard from the supposedly irate citizens is that they are glad that I have informed them about what is going on.

I do not owe anyone an apology, and I am not going to give one.

Normally, I don't have a problem with teachers, especially those who teach elementary school. I believe that probably the majority of our teachers are doing a good job — but there are always those few who make it bad for the rest. And as far as parents making negative comments about teachers to their children is concerned, I am not responsible for that; that problem has existed in this town for many years.

You have to understand that, just because most people don't make over $48,000 a year, it doesn't mean that they are stupid. They really do have eyes and minds of their own.

By the way — you talk about contributing to negative attitudes and a whole catalog of other things of which I am supposedly guilty. Who is it who wears black arm bands, stages histrionic "funerals" for education, and makes disparaging comments about the School Board to parents? It sure as hell isn't me!

Trying to use psychology on me doesn't work — facts do!

Motion, Motion, What Was the Motion?

by Dave Atkins

In a recent City Council meeting (Monday, September 24, 1990), Mayor Beverly McAnally asked the Council to concur with her appointment of two people to the Housing Commission. (Legally, the Mayor does not need the City Council's approval of such appointments; she just wanted to make her decision a matter of public record, and do Council the courtesy of keeping them informed and respectfully seeking their input.)

After her announcement of the appointees, Councilman Ellis Pennington made a motion to concur with the appointment; the motion was seconded by Lambert. Before a vote was taken, however, Councilman Bergeron asked about the possibility that one of the candidates might not be able to serve because she is also a resident, and so could have a conflict of interest (a logical point to bring up).

After some discussion on whether such an appointment would be ethical or even legal, and before any action had been taken on the motion already

It was at this point, before any vote could be taken on this second motion, that Councilman Jimmie C. Raspberry correctly pointed out to the Council that their concurrence was not legally required — a good point. McAnally replied that she was aware of the law; however, she still requested the Council's official concurrence in order to demonstrate to the appointees and the rest of the community that the matter was favorably recognized by the City Council.

submitted by James A. Kosteva, State Representative for the 37th District

During this current legislative session, many new laws have been passed that have been designed to help make life easier and less expensive for Michigan's older residents.

For example, new laws allow insurance companies to offer retired seniors over the age of 60 the option of waiving work loss coverage on their automobile insurance coverage. Present Michigan law requires auto insurance policies to provide benefits to cover lost wages, as well as certain expenses necessary for care, recovery, and rehabilitation. Under the new law, older individuals would still receive reimbursement for expenses, but could be exempted from paying for lost wage coverage, which many retired people do not want or need.

Legislation that would strengthen State laws against abuse of older people has received full legislative approval. The new measure will modernize existing language and improve the emphasis of Michigan's Adult Protective Services Act, thereby improving its enforceability. The prominent role substance abuse can play in physical abuse of older persons is also addressed in the new law.

Under a bill approved by the Legislature, insurance companies will be permitted, but not required, to offer discounted individual homeowner's insurance to people 55 years of age and older. Consideration of age has not been allowed when establishing rates for individual policies. This measure is intended to stimulate honest competition between insurance companies and give senior homeowners a break in their annual premiums.

A package of bills passed by the Legislature would provide additional funds for elder respite centers, where older people in need of care can stay for a few hours or a few days, giving their caregivers some relief. A new Respite Care Fund will be supported by recovery of State health insurance checks that were not cashed within seven years. The amount of the check will revert to the new fund, which will distribute the money to local agencies that provide respite services for older people.

The Legislature has also authorized a Center for Rural Health, to be operated by the State and a major Michigan university. Experts at the center will develop a coordinated rural health plan and promote health education for rural residents and medical professionals. Rural areas have a higher percentage of older and poorer people, and higher unemployment rates, with more individuals and families lacking ample health insurance.

Michigan's older residents deserve all the protection they can get. As more people are living longer than at any time in the past, State lawmakers must always be exploring innovative ways to ease the burden for all older people. □

Fire Prevention Week Is October 7 - 13, 1990

Be Alert To Fire Hazards

The Romulus Fire Department and the Michigan State Police Fire Marshal Division wish to remind you that October 7-13 is Fire Prevention Week.

This year's theme, "Make Your Place Firesafe: Hunt for Home Hazards," hopefully will be an inspiration to the young and old, rich and poor, to lower the risk of having a fire in their homes. Fire Prevention Week presents a perfect opportunity for us to help people become more cognizant of the potential fire hazards in and around their homes. During Fire Prevention Week, Captain Wade Schaefer, along with the entire Michigan State Police Fire Marshal Division, joins all Michigan fire associations and local fire departments in an effort to help eliminate the needless loss of property and life related to fires.

Planning in advance for fire emergencies would save many of the lives lost annually in home fires and also significantly reduce fire-related injuries. Learn not to burn — correct fire hazards in your home and keep your family safe from fire.

Every year, almost 5,000 Americans die in home fires. That's 13 people every day, dying in their own homes. Tens of thousands more suffer pain and disfigurement from burns and smoke inhalation. It could happen to you and your family! You can reduce the danger of fire in your home dramatically by taking a fire-safety tour of your home (see below).

You should understand the major cause of fires and fire deaths in the home.

The leading cause of home fires is heating equipment that has been improperly designed, incorrectly installed, and poorly maintained or misused. This includes wood stoves, fireplaces, chimneys, portable heaters, and other space heaters.

Careless handling of cigarettes, cigars, and pipes results in more fire deaths than any other single cause.

Cooking fires cause more injuries than any other type of home fire.

Make Your House Fire Safe

Almost 20,000 residential fires occurred in the State of Michigan in 1989. You can help reduce the chance that you and your home will become a fire casualty this year by inspecting it for fire hazards.

- Install smoke detectors outside sleeping areas and on each level of the house. Clean your detector as recommended.

The Lighter Slice

The Last Slice

by Tom Shamanski

You may find this hard to swallow, folks, but somehow Mr. D. Trump, of billionaire fame, got ahold of one of my recent columns. He called soon after.

* * *

"Tom? D. Trump, here."

"Gee, D., what can I do for thee?"

"It's about your column, T.; I'll give you money to give it to me."

"Pardon me, D.?"

"C'mon now, T., don't play dumb with me. I have a set price in mind; more than that you'll never find."

"But D.," said I, "I'm not playing at all. You'll give me money to write? ... I'll have myself a ball?"

"Heavens no, T.; that'll bring no fee. I'll pay you not to write; your burden will be light. 'Community service' I'll call it; just doing my civil bit. I may get some sort of pin; or, with luck, some good press again."

"Hmm, I see, D. ... Exactly now, Mr. T.; how much money would this be?"

Now, I don't want to gloat, folks, but it was a substantial amount ... enough for me to buy a lifetime supply of "crazy bread" from Little Caesar's. So, this Lighter Slice will also be the Last Slice.

* * *

Actually, folks, other commitments now make it impossible for me to continue this column. And for that, I'm sad. But, I'm more than glad for the kind words that I've received from readers over the past three years. I'm hopeful my efforts have given you a chuckle or two every couple of weeks. For me, the column has truly been a labor of love.

* * *

Thank you, Dave Atkins, my editor and friend, for giving me the opportunity to see my words in print. Thank you, Evelyn, for being caring and supportive. And thank you, Kristi, for your tolerance of my deadline tardiness, for your commitment to excellence and all that's entailed therein, but mostly for sharing and caring. □

The Traffic Report

If you haven't already looked at the calendar, it's the fall season again, and with fall, the car/deer crashes increase dramatically. Not only does this happen "up north," it happens on the roads of Romulus. Each year, dozens of vehicles are severely damaged and their occupants are injured from striking deer. The deer crashes usually happen on the rural roads; however, they do occur around populated areas, as well.

Be careful! Deer are very unpredictable and will jump right in front of your vehicle without warning.

If you have any questions regarding traffic laws, safety, etc., write to: Officer Rick Schwartz, c/o Romulus Police Department, 11165 Olive, Romulus, MI 48174. Answers will appear in future issues of "the little paper." □

Point of Law

by Murray A. Duncan, Jr., Attorney

A prerequisite to a valid drunk driving arrest is a valid stop. If a defendant can show that the police officer lacked a legally sufficient basis for making the stop, then the charges against him/her would be dismissed.

A police officer may stop a motor vehicle for any misdemeanor violation or civil infraction committed in his/her presence. An officer may also stop a motor vehicle for the purpose of inquiry, if the stop is based on a reasonable suspicion of criminality. For example, if the officer has information that a red Ford pickup truck was used in an armed robbery, the officer could stop a red Ford pickup truck in the area of the robbery. If the driver of the truck, even though innocent of the robbery, was intoxicated, an operating under the influence of liquor (OUIL) ticket could be issued.

The law specifically allows a police officer to arrest a person for an alcohol-related offense not committed in his/her presence if there has been an accident. The officer must have probable cause to believe that: 1) the person was the driver at the time of the accident; 2) the person was operating the vehicle on a highway or other place open to the general public; and 3) the person was under the influence of liquor or a controlled substance.

When an officer arrives at the scene of a one-car accident, with a person standing outside of the vehicle, an OUIL ticket is often issued. The defendant will probably assert that the prosecution will not be able to prove that the defendant was operating the motor vehicle.

The prosecution will usually attempt to prove that the defendant was operating the vehicle by using the defendant's own statements made to the arresting officer. Most people acknowledge to the officer that they were operating the vehicle.

The second way of proving that the defendant was operating the vehicle is by circumstantial evidence. Most juries will presume that the vehicle did not appear at the accident scene without a driver.

If you have a legal question that you would like answered, you may send your question to my office and I will attempt to address it in a future issue. Questions should be mailed to: Murray A. Duncan, Jr., 10000 South Wayne Road, Romulus, Michigan 48174. □ mind everyone of the first motion that was still on the floor — only, according to him, he (Lambert) had made the motion and Pennington had been the one to second it. When Mayor Pro Tem Randolph Gear asked Lambert if he hadn't mixed up the order of motion/second, Lambert repeated that the motion had been his. By that time, everyone was so confused that Gear said, "Okay, we'll just change it." (Can you do that?)

So, with two other motions still on the floor, Lambert moved to concur with the Mayor's appointments. Then came the vote. Lambert? Yes. Pennington? Yes. Bergeron? ... Mr. Bergeron? A brief silence.

When other Councilmen prodded Bergeron for his answer, he said that he wasn't going to waste his time voting on an issue that was meaningless ... and then, after a short pause, he wryly added, "Even though I probably do once in a while."

After a few chuckles, a little more discussion, and a slight change in the semantics of the motion, the vote was taken and the motion was accepted.

I wonder whatever happened to the other two motions on the floor that were never properly rescinded? I think that maybe someone should be reviewing Robert's Rules of Order and correcting the entire matter at the next Council meeting. □

Sports Updates

by Fred Coleman, Romulus Schools Athletic Director

RHS Golf

Overall: 3-17 League: 0-12

The Eagle team of Chris Vavro, Ed Tank, Ben Good, and Brian Bartholomew finished tied for third place in the Gabriel Richard Invitational, which featured 36 teams from the area in a scramble format, and the Eagles shot an eight-under-par score of 64.

The League matches have been a real disappointment for Coach Bill Knight and his team, as it seems that they can't put five good scores together at one time during these competitions.

Hopefully, they are waiting for the South Central Conference meet that the Eagles will host at Willow Metro Park on Monday, October 8.

RHS Cross Country

Overall: 4-5 League: 0-2

Sophomore Eric Newcomb has set sights on establishing new records in both cross country and track, and recently ran a 17:42 in the 3.1-mile cross-country run, just 51 seconds off the current Romulus record.

"Eric is really running well right now," stated Coach Dan Henry, "but I think it is because we have a great group of athletes who are all pushing each other to do better each meet."

A recent sixth-place finish in the Huron Invitational showed the team efforts of this year's group, with Eric finishing eighteenth and junior James Catron finishing twenty-second, just six seconds behind Eric.

Adding to the team's success at this meet were Ricky Liberty (thirty-sixth), Steve Miller (thirty-ninth), Ryan Darnell (fortieth), and senior captain Dennis Tessin (fifty-second).

"This is a fun group of fine athletes who are only going to get better as this year goes on. They're already talking about running this winter and looking forward to track season. You just can't beat dedication and hard work," Henry concluded.

Good luck, Eagles, on the rest of the season.

RHS Women's Basketball

Overall: 5-3 League: 1-1

Riding a four-game winning streak, the Lady Eagles face two very tough opponents this week in Redford Union and Ann Arbor Pioneer.

The Eagles are using their team speed and team unity on defense to pressure their opponents, while taking turns sharing moments of glory on offense.

In recent victories over Edsel Ford and Ann Arbor Huron, the Eagles were led by Carmita Brown on offense, as Carmita scored a career-high 36 points in the Edsel Ford victory.

Susan Molenda leads the Eagles in rebounding and trails Carmita only slightly in the offensive statistics.

The key to the Eagles' success this year is probably the back-court trio of Jennifer Daniel and the Hopewell twins, Kim and Angi.

Although one of these three will, on occasion, have an exceptional offensive game (Kim scored 12 against Belleville and Jennifer had her season high of nine versus Ann Arbor Huron), it is their ability to shut down the other team's offense that has really been the success story of this season so far.

"I usually put Jennifer and Kim on their best player and allow their quickness to upset their offensive skills," stated second-year coach Tim Cullen. "These two also have great vision of the floor on offense, and both do a great job getting the ball up the floor and in to Carmita and Susan for their scoring shots."

The Eagles are home for their next three games before traveling to Ypsilanti on October 11.

"We face three tough opponents in Redford Union, Pioneer, and Garden City (this game will be televised on cable)," stated Cullen, "and this will really give us an indication of just how much we have improved and just where we have to continue to work hard."

Good luck, Lady Eagles!

RHS Football

Overall: 0-5 League: 0-2

It's Saturday morning, 6:30 a.m., and you just lost 48-0 less than 10 hours ago. Where would you be? In bed, right?

Not our coaches and players. They were up analyzing what happened and how they can fix it before taking on Ann Arbor Huron this Friday.

"I don't know yet if Ypsilanti is the best team in the State this year," stated Head Coach Dan Henry, "but if they're not, I can't wait to see a team better than the one we played Friday."

Ypsilanti towered over the much smaller and younger Eagles on Friday evening and totally dominated the statistics of the game.

"We may have played State Champions in back-to-back weeks (Frankenmuth, last weekend's opponent, is ranked second in the State Class BB), and still our kids get up on Saturday morning and come to find out what they can do to get better for their next game."

Seniors Eben Smith (September's Athlete of the Month), Octavius Miles, and Steve Hockett are currently leading the charge of this very young group of sophomores and juniors, and, even though the win column doesn't show it, this team is giving all that they have, trying to put together that extra effort that will get them their first victory.

"Guam Lee getting hurt sure put a big hole in our team this season, but it hasn't stopped our players from working hard each week to get that first win," stated Henry. "These young kids want to not only put a 'W' in the book for Guam, but also for all the seniors, and after their fine performance on Friday against Ypsi, I really believe it may just happen real soon!"

How do you feel good about a 48-0 score? Well, you would have had to be at the game to really appreciate the David and Goliath mismatch of this contest. David didn't win this one, but he sure went down swinging.

"Nobody likes to lose in athletics — not the players, coaches, or fans — and, believe me, it is tough on these athletes to face their peers on Monday each week. The easiest thing to do when you're 0-5 is 'quit,' or at least stop working hard and just try and get through the rest of the season. Not this group! This season ends on October 26, and I can tell you right now that the coaches and the players will give everything they have in their power to represent this school and community from now until the end, and all we can hope for is a little support from our fans."

The Eagles travel to Ann Arbor Huron on Friday evening for a 7:30 p.m. game before returning to Carl Morris Field for the Homecoming clash with Milan on October 12.

A bright future can be seen for Romulus football, due to the excellent group of junior varsity players, 56 young men involved in junior high football, and the large group of youngsters participating in this year's Flyer program.

What appears to be a "lost" season for Eagle football may indeed be the building year for the future. The coaching, the schedule changes, the youth in our program, and the desire to improve are all there. All we need now is "you," the fan, to be our best support, and I think that we're going to see a big turn-around just around the corner. □

by Fred Coleman, Romulus Schools Athletic Director

Recently, I have received some comments on our withdrawal from the South Central Conference that truly make sense, but do not warrant our rethinking that decision.

It's true that the South Central Conference is one of the top Class A leagues in the State, with a number of State Championships to boast about. It is also true that League affiliation gives our athletes a "second season" to compete in, with the opportunity to win the League Championship.

Winning, although very important to all people involved with athletics, is not the "ultimate goal" of high school sports. We are moving our program in a direction that would allow our athletes to be more successful in life following graduation. We want to give our athletes a positive, worthwhile experience that will help them grow as young men and young women to better fill a later role as an adult in our society.

Our coaching staff emphasizes academics (study tables are common for all sports); not all SCC schools do. Our staff emphasizes sportsmanship (three State awards to Romulus High School last year); not all SCC teams do. Our staff emphasizes team unity (no one is larger than the good of the whole team); not all SCC teams follow that concept, either.

The future of our district looks very bright. Being "out-of-formula" is going to generate funds for our schools that are going to allow us to improve all aspects of education in Romulus.

In November, the voters in Romulus are going to have a unique opportunity to vote for a $45-million "bond issue" that WILL NOT RAISE their current tax rate one penny. This money, if approved, will help to develop our current facilities into the form that our athletes and our community deserve.

As a taxpayer, employee, and athletic director in this school district, I am truly excited about what may happen in the next few years in our district. I can only hope that all of our voters will seek out the "truth" about this proposal and not react to rumor or misinformation and, ultimately, give our students and community members the facilities and technology needed to be able to compete with the rest of the leaders and work force as we move into the twenty-first century.

Anyone who is at all involved with our schools knows that we need facility renovation desperately. This bond issue proposal is a method of gaining, from local businesses and taxpayers, those dollars needed to establish a school system rated as tops in this area. And all this is possible without an increase in current tax levels.

I would like to urge all voters to attend one of the "open house" events at a school in their area to get the true information concerning this very important issue.

Please consider a vote for our future on November 6. □

Carmichael To Challenge Kosteva in November

by Dave Atkins

Dolores Carmichael, a long-time Romulus resident, is running for State Representative for the 37th District. That office is presently being held by James A. Kosteva.

Carmichael was the only person running on the Republican ticket in the primary, and now she will be on the ballot in November.

Carmichael's husband, Hyle, was the first mayor of the City of Romulus, serving a three-year term in that office.

When I asked her what her overall concerns were on the issues in the District and State, she responded with the following information:

What Are the Problems of Special Importance to Your District?

- First and foremost, voters definitely want to replace their State Representative in Lansing with a person who is more responsive to them and has a true empathy in respect to the problems of people/business in the District.
- Small business and many property owners, especially senior citizens, with limited total assets and/or limited income capabilities, cannot afford the yearly increased property taxes and the arbitrarily increased property assessments resulting from the ongoing transition now taking place which is affecting people/business/property.

- Money budgeted for education is squandered on excessive and/or duplicate elements instead of being used for a curriculum conducive to preparing high school students, especially those not college-bound, with the type of determination, self-discipline, and work skills needed for entry-level positions in a technological economy.
- An increasing number of "grandfather" (prior to 1921) property owners who are now trying to sell their land are discovering that the DNR previously had arbitrarily, and without notification to the owner(s), declared their land as "wetlands," thus robbing owners of the land's full cash value and past/present tax money paid on nonsaleable land.
- Potential and existing small businesses, in order to start/stay competitive and/or give better employee benefits, want tax incentives and/or tax abatement programs similar to what is given to big businesses.
- Persons with limited or no personal assets who independently pay their own medical insurance premiums can no longer afford the rate increases, much less the coverage; therefore, many are now without health care insurance.

List Your Top Five Goals

- Re: Taxes — Reduce property taxes and include measures that will allow young people who are first-time home buyers to have some type of temporary exemption; curtail arbitrarily increased property assessments; and eliminate small businesses.

- Re: Education — Make it mandatory that all appropriate money for education and the lottery revenue be used for the education of students in programs/classes that directly affect the student's ability to obtain a full-time or entry-level position in the workplace or to enter college; also work toward a future Choice/Voucher program.
- Re: Jobs, Economy, Environment — Make Michigan a viable Hollywood-film-producing state which, in turn, would create jobs, bring tourism and an increase in revenue, plus put Michigan "on the map" per se. Create tax incentives for all businesses that hire persons who are functionally impaired, students just out of high school, and able-bodied welfare recipients (Workfare instead of Welfare); and that have cost-sharing child care.

- Re: Health Care — Have better insurance rates for those with limited assets who are independently paying for their own medical insurance, and a cost-containment (steps to reduce medical bills) measure.
- Re: Government and Elected/Appointed Officials — Have definite guidelines as to the duties of the DNR and related departments/agencies which would also include designation as to who is accountable for what happens or fails to happen. Curtail the practice of special interest groups of donating to political candidates and make it understood that any violation of the rule is cause for immediate removal from elected office and/or position.

Why Are You Qualified To Seek Election?

There is no comparison between me and my opponent, who lacks the common sense, empathy, and understanding needed to respond effectively to the diversified population in the District, and the "guts" to do the right thing.

Having been raised in a Catholic orphan home (age two to 15), then placed in the care of the Cloister Sisters of the Poor, I know the horrors of bad times and can easily relate to most of society's social problems in a manner that other candidates cannot, nor can they even begin to realize what causes the problems and how they should be alleviated, much less cured. I have the "empathy."

Despite my background, and as a person who has never accepted welfare of any kind while raising and educating (through college) my two children and independently owning/operating a business for 27 years, I have developed good common sense and an expertise in knowing how to obtain one's goals and objectives, yet stay within a budget. I know how to make the hard decisions and temper them with compassion and "understanding."

My 30 years of working successfully with Democrats and Republicans on a national/state/local level has given me the readiness needed to be an effective legislator. I have the "guts" to stand up for the people's right to have responsive government in exchange for their hard-earned tax dollars, and am fully prepared to give my undivided attention to the job." □

- ommended by the manufacturer and replace batteries once a year.
- Clean the attic, basements, closets, and garage. Throw out old newspapers, rubbish, and other combustibles.
- Make sure that flammable liquids such as gasoline, paint thinner, varnish, paint, lighter fluid, and oils are kept in tightly closed, approved containers and are stored in a cool, dry place away from furnaces or other heat sources.
- A fireplace should have a metal screen or glass doors installed in the opening to prevent escaping sparks or embers from igniting household combustible materials.
- Electrical extension cords should not be overloaded. They should be out in the open, and not laid over hooks, placed under rugs, or run through doorways where they may become worn and create short circuits.
- Have your chimney and chimney connector inspected and cleaned before and during each heating season, especially if a wood-burning appliance is used.
- Furnaces and heating systems should be checked and cleaned at least once a year.

By inspecting for fire hazards and correcting them, most home fires can be prevented.

A Home Fire-safety Tour

We can reduce the danger of fire dramatically by taking a fire-safety tour of our homes right now, looking for fire hazards. Start your fire safety tour where most home fires start: the living areas.

Living Rooms, Family Rooms, and Recreation Rooms — If anybody smokes in your home, you need large ashtrays that won't tip over. A dropped cigarette can smolder for hours in an upholstered chair before bursting into flame.

Make a habit of seeing that matches and lighters are out of children's reach. Teach children that matches and lighters are tools for adults, not toys.

Check with your fire department to make sure wood-burning stoves are installed properly, and have your chimney cleaned at least once a year.

Portable heaters can also pose a fire hazard. If you are using a kerosene heater, use caution and fuel it according to the manufacturer's instruction.

Check for electrical cords and plugs that are cracked, worn, or frayed and for overloaded electrical outlets.

Basement, Utility, and Storage Areas — Dispose of unnecessary trash that could fuel a fire, including sawdust and wood shavings around the work bench.

If there is a fuse box, is it equipped with proper-sized fuses, with spares handy? If a fuse blows or a circuit-breaker trips, try to find the cause. Make sure a new fuse is the right size and amperage.

Kitchen — Are all kitchen appliances in proper working order? If not, don't use them until they're professionally repaired. Overloaded outlets are a serious fire hazard. Also, a clean stove is much safer than a greasy one.

When cooking, tight-fitting sleeves are safer than looser sleeves that could catch fire. And remember: never leave hot stoves or dishes unattended.

Bedrooms — Smoking in bed is a deadly home fire hazard. Be sure lighters and matches have not been left in children's reach.

Almost every day, a smoke detector saves somebody's life. Most fatal home fires happen while people are asleep. Smoke detectors wake people up before smoke overcomes them.

A quick tour of your house, a few dollars invested in smoke-detectors, and a few precautions to follow — these simple inexpensive steps can make your place fire-safe. □

Festival Committee

The Romulus Festival Committee will be meeting at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, October 9, in the Recreation Building. This is the annual meeting where new officers for the upcoming season will be elected. The public is welcome to attend. New committee members are being sought. □
